Benefits and Risk of Regular Counseling w/ Gabriel & Tom and Faith-Based Counseling w/ Catreece—Counseling is a growing process and ultimately amounts to what you put into it. It requires hard work and dedication from the Licensed Professional Counselor and the client(s). We are both important in this process. Although counseling creates personal growth and satisfaction in one's life, there are some risks, including stress and discomfort. It is also important to understand that during these hard times true progress can occur. We also need to know the location where the telehealth services will take place. And implement a safety plan should you require additional services when a trained professional is not physically there with you. Please complete the intake paperwork before the first counseling session via the portal; which is <https://www.therapyportal.com/p/bakers/>. Please send in a copy of your picture ID and health insurance information before the first counseling session.

Confidentiality— Although all information is confidential, there are some exceptions to the rule. I am required by law to report some topics that may be discussed in counseling. For example, I must report abuse to a child and an elderly person to the proper authorities. I am also required to release information or notes that may be ordered by the courts for a court hearing. And last, but not least, harm to yourself and/or to others, as well. Your written consent is required for services, so an electronic signature may be used. We will document this provision in the medical record.

Payment for Services— The Licensed Professional Counselor pay schedules are as follow: An initial clinical assessment is $150 per hour (video session). A 30-minute video counseling session is $75. A 45-minute video counseling session is $100. A 60-minute video counseling session is $150 and a 90-minute video session is $200. Relationship counseling (Couple's Therapy) is $100 for a 45-minute video session, $150 for 60- minute video session and $200 for 90-minute video session. A 30-minute phone consultation with the Licensed Professional Counselor is $60 at LPC's discretion. Case Management is offered for non-covered services (i.e. reports). Please ask for price list. The Licensed Professional Counselor is in-network with BlueCross BlueShield to provide video sessions.
